The Definition of Crime Changes

NIBRS Replaces UCR

Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR), which is promulgated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in conjunction with the police chiefs and sheriffs across the United States, has been the national crime reporting method since the 1930s. "Crime in the United States" is the most recognizable UCR product and is the official national summary of crime and arrests. Starting in 1989, the FBI started accepting the new NIBRS crime data from approved states. Because only eight states submit all of their crime data via NIBRS, Crime in the United States is still published in the UCR format, with the FBI translating NIBRS state's data to the UCR format for the national report.

National Incident Based Crime Reporting System (NIBRS) eliminates the UCR "hierarchical rule" where only the most serious charge in a crime is counted. NIBRS now provides a complete count of each serious charge within a criminal event. Under UCR, "reported crimes" was the broadest measurement of crime. Under UCR detailed crime information was only provided for the eight violent and serious property crimes. Under NIBRS detailed information is provided for 22 crimes with specific counts of all serious charges and is referred to as "offenses received." These changes in counting result in a fundamental change in the measurement of crime and as such the comparison to the Crime in Delaware series which began in 1977 and ended in 2002 is only roughly comparable to the new and expanded NIBRS crime reporting.

To provide a viable history, the State Bureau of Identification in the Delaware State Police provided a 2000 to 2005 summary for the detailed NIBRS crime information for this report.

UCR Part I Crime versus NIBRS Group A Crime

UCR Part I Crimes: Murder, Rape, Robbery, Aggravated Assault, Burglary, Larceny, Motor Vehicle Theft, and Arson.

NIBRS Group A Crimes: Homicide, Kidnapping, Forcible Sex Offenses, Robbery, Assaults (all), Arson, Extortion/Blackmail, Burglary, Larceny/Theft, Motor Vehicle Theft, Counterfeiting/Forgery, Fraud, Embezzlement, Stolen Property, Property Destruction/Vandalism, Drug/Narcotic Offenses, Other Sex Offenses, Bribery, Pornography/Obscene Material, Gambling, Prostitution, and Weapon Law Violations.

NIBRS Implementation and Data Sharing

The Delaware Uniform Crime Reporting system, maintained by the Delaware State Bureau of Identification, completed its upgrade to a National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS) in 2006. NIBRS is a second-generation national crime reporting system, in which information is collected and reported on an incident level, allowing for more detailed analysis.

NIBRS collects data on each single incident and arrest within 22 Offense categories which consist of 46 specific crimes called "Group A Offenses". For each of the offenses coming to the attention of Law Enforcement, specific types of facts about each crime are gathered. In addition to the Group A offenses, there are 11 Group B offense categories for which only summary complaint and arrest data are reported.

Since its inception in 2000, 100 percent of 53 Delaware law enforcement agencies were reporting NIBRS data to the statewide repository.

NIBRS is gradually replacing the long-standing Uniform Crime Reporting program. Throughout the UCR program's first 60 years of operation it remained virtually unchanged in terms of the data collected and disseminated. With time, a wider use evolved for UCR data, and law enforcement agencies expanded their capabilities to supply crime information. In the late 1970s, the law enforcement community began a thorough evaluative study of UCR in an attempt to recommend an expanded and enhanced UCR Program to meet law enforcement needs into the 21st century. Following a multiyear study, a "Blueprint for the Future of the Uniform Crime Reporting Program" was developed. Using the "Blueprint" and in consultation with local and state law enforcement executives, new guidelines for crime reporting were formulated as The National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS).

NIBRS offers law enforcement and policy makers more comprehensive data than ever before available for management, training, planning, and research. The implementation of NIBRS will be at a pace commensurate with the resources, abilities, and limitations of the contributing law enforcement agencies. It is important to stress that while NIBRS is being implemented, the traditional UCR reporting format is still being used extensively.

FBI pilot testing has begun of a third-generation crime reporting system, which aims to extend the scope of NIBRS into the realm of information sharing. The NIBRS data are designed to be generated as a by-product of local, state and federal automated record systems. This new system promises to provide law enforcement agencies with current, secure, investigative information that has strategic, operational, and tactical intelligence value.

The FBI was able to accept NIBRS data as of January 1989, and to date, the following 29 state programs have been certified for NIBRS participation: Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. Among those that submit NIBRS data, eight states (Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, and Vermont) submit all their data via the NIBRS.

Delaware's Long Road to NIBRS implementation

By Sharon Durham, Delaware State Police, State Bureau of Identification.

This article was originally published in CJIS, A Newsletter for the Criminal Justice Community, NIBRS Edition Volume 4, No. 1, 2000.

I remember returning from Orange Beach, Alabama, following my first conference on the National Incident- Based Reporting System (NIBRS) in 1988 thinking that implementation of the new System wouldn't be too bad and that our Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) staff could handle modifications and additions required for NIBRS without any problems. After all, Delaware had been collecting automated, incident-based information since the 1970s. All police agencies in the state were already using a standardized incident report, and data entry was performed on a statewide mainframe system. Since, in essence, our agencies were already collecting more data than required for UCR; I assumed that only minor modifications would be necessary in order to become NIBRS compliant. Boy was I wrong! Nine years after we undertook NIBRS implementation, we are finally on the verge of being certified and are looking forward to that moment.

Hindsight illuminates the magnitude of our underestimation of what needed to transpire in order to establish a NIBRS compatible system. The first problem we encountered was a big one – funding. Initially our programming staff estimated conversion costs at $18,000; naturally, we submitted a grant request to the Bureau of Justice Statistics for that amount. Unfortunately, the original estimate was, to say the very least, off the mark, and a year later we found ourselves submitting yet another request for $80,000. However, once funding was acquired, we were on our way.

Because we only had to add about 15 additional data elements to our current data entry screens, that aspect of the conversion wasn't difficult. Programmers modified the input screens and added edit checks to the online input system to assure uniformity of data entry. State program staff modified coding and report-writing manuals and provided training at the state's four input sites. During this process, we were still producing the Summary UCR data tape and paper data collection forms monthly. When the time came to produce the first NIBRS data tape, we encountered our second major problem – programmer error. In an attempt to develop the NIBRS tape capacity, the programmer somehow totally deleted the program that produced our Summary UCR tape. Needless to say, the programmer was removed from the project, and we had to start from scratch.

The next programmer, who stayed for approximately 3 years, reestablished our ability to produce the statistical printouts required for Summary reporting. We then decided that, in order to concentrate on producing the NIBRS tape, we would rely solely on paper reports for Summary submission and not redevelop tape capacity. We have continued to submit NIBRS test tapes to the FBI since 1991. Through these years of testing, we have had five different programmers, a circumstance which has made us aware of a third problem – the learning curve. We have discovered that a programmer's learning curve for NIBRS is at least 1 year.

During this period, we encountered yet another obstacle – the state's decision makers decreed that an entirely new statewide Criminal Justice Information System would be implemented; this decision presented problems for our NIBRS data collection efforts. Further modification of data entry screens created a need for more hours of testing and training. The addition of new data elements, overall system changes, and personnel issues resulted in a tremendous input backlog throughout the state. Measures then had to be taken to eliminate the backlog. Among these were the development of mini input screens that allowed us to distribute data entry to resources other than the state's four input sites. Again, staff provided hours of testing and training, and we expended funds for overtime and temporary personnel. Through these efforts, the backlog was eliminated, and still we managed to send NIBRS test tapes to the FBI.

In contrast to the above-mentioned setbacks, we received very positive support from the FBI. In May 1999, staff from the FBI's education/Training Services Unit provided training that proved to be extremely beneficial. Participants included the state program data entry and coding staff, programmers, and the UCR manager. During the meetings, we were able to resolve many issues relating to crime classification, and the participants came away with a better understanding of NIBRS. In September 1999, at our request, an FBI Quality Assurance Review (QAR) team reviewed all four input sites in the state. The review went well; all agencies appeared to classify crimes uniformly. In both instances, the FBI staff did an outstanding job and was great to work with. The experience and knowledge gained from the NIBRS training and the QAR reviews are invaluable. My advice to all states and agencies is to take full advantage of both of these programs.

The length of time that it has taken Delaware to reach this point in NIBRS certification clearly has not been only the result of the NIBRS certification process or requirements. As I have stated, there have been other unanticipated obstacles – personnel problems, system changes, backlogs, etc. – that have hindered the process. Since our error rate is now at an acceptable level, and we have been approved for all elements of certification except statistical reasonableness, the FBI would like to review one more tape before the final certification. At present, we are diligently working with our programmer to submit our final data tape. In spite of all our unforeseen obstacles, we anticipate NIBRS certification early in the year 2000. Since Delaware requires all police agencies to submit NIBRS data to the state Program, once certified we will be submitting NIBRS data for the entire state. Very few states in the Nation can make that statement, and Delaware will take pride in joining the ranks of those that can.

Work on NIBRS continued until it has become fully implemented. Sharon Durham was promoted to the Assistant Director of SBI but she remains the State Program Manager for Crime Reporting. Renee Rigby took over for Sharon Durham as Crime Reports Supervisor in 1996.

Delaware became a certified NIBRS (National Incident Based Reporting System) in July 2001. We had been collecting NIBRS data for many years, so there were not many changes with the data in the system. However, once we started producing new reports with more Group A offenses everyone began to question the data. We did have a few issues that were quickly resolved. Everyone adjusted well once we explained the new way of counting crime.

By Renee Rigby, State Bureau of Identification Quality Control Manager, 2007

In 2003 we started using a new state system, LEISS (Law Enforcement Investigative Support Systems) to complete the crime reports. This was another learning curve for the NIBRS staff. It's actually a great system that allows all law enforcement agencies throughout the state to produce their crime reports. The NIBRS Quality Control Section then uses the same system to review the reports. Once the report is approved by a Quality Control employee, the report goes directly to our NIBRS files to be submitted to the FBI. The data is then submitted electronically to the FBI. The state system produces an error listing on all reports that exist in the system and those reports are corrected and sent on the next submission. Currently Delaware is submitting crime data to the FBI monthly.

Serious Property Crimes include Arson, Extortion/blackmail, Burglary, Larceny/Theft and Motor vehicle theft.

Drug Offenses include Group A Drug/Narcotic Violations and Group A Drug Equipment Violations

Other Property & Social Crimes include Counterfeiting/Forgery, Fraud, Embezzlement, Stolen Property, Property Destruction/Vandalism, non-forcible Sex Offenses, Pornography/ Obscene Material, Gambling Offenses, Prostitution and Bribery

READERS NOTES

Crime rates are sometimes calculated from multiple tables throughout the report and put into the text portion of the publication. Therefore, the reader will not necessarily see a table that reflects that calculation. Crime Rates are calculated using the most current Center for Applied Demography and Survey Research (CADSR) project Data.

2000 – 2005 CRIME IN DELAWARE CRIME SUMMARY AND HIGHLIGHTS

- TOTAL REPORTED GROUP A CRIME DECREASES. Offenses Received have had a 1.2 percent decrease between 2000 and 2005. The total offenses received, Group A crime complaints went from 93,984 in 2000 to a five year low of 91,274 in 2004. Total crime received reached a six year high in 2002 at 95,330. (See Figure 2)
- THE CRIME RATE DECREASES FASTER THAN THE NUMBER OF CRIMES. There has been a 7.9 percent decrease in the Crime Rate for Offenses Received since 2000. The crime rate in 2000 was 119.51, and almost annually decreased to 110.03 in 2005. (See Tables 2 and 5) The crime rate decreased faster than the number of crimes because the state population increased so much. Between 2000 and 2005, Delaware population increased 7.3 percent, from 786,418 to 843,540. (See Table 58) As the state experienced a growth spurt, crime decreased slightly, thus generating a decreasing crime rate.
- VIOLENT CRIMES INCREASE. There has been a 2.9 percent increase in Violent Crimes since 2000. There were 26,498 violent offenses received in 2000, and 27,263 reported in 2005. (See Table 7) The six year peak for Violent Crime was 27,994 in 2002.
- DRUG CRIMES INCREASE. Drug Crimes have increased 35.7 percent since 2000. In 2000, there were 7,277 reported Drug Offenses. This increased to 9,876 in 2005. (See Table 24)
- OVERALL ARRESTS INCREASE. There has been a 33 percent overall increase in Group A arrests since 2000. In 2000, 20,610 adults and juveniles had been arrested. This increased to a six year high in 2005, when 27,407 adults and juveniles were arrested. (See Table 30)
- ADULT ARRESTS INCREASE 36 PERCENT. There has been a 36.3 percent increase in adult Group A arrests since 2000. In 2000, there were 16,082 adult arrests. In 2005, there were 21,917 adult arrests. (See Table 32)
- JUVENILE ARRESTS INCREASE 21 PERCENT. There has been a 21.2 percent increase in juvenile Group A arrests since 2000. In 2000, there were a total of 4,528 juvenile arrests. In 2005, the number of juveniles arrested increased to 5,490. (See Table 37)
- CRIMES CLEARED INCREASE 13 PERCENT. Since 2000, there has been a 13.2 percent increase in the percentage of statewide offenses cleared. (See Table 42)
- GROUP B COMPLAINTS INCREASE. Group B Complaints received, which represents the less serious crimes, has increased 5.9 percent since 2000. (See Table 55)

Delaware Statewide Crime by Offenses Received

Although Group A crime peaked in 2002, the crime rate per 1,000 actually decreased compared to earlier years because the state's population increased faster than crimes. When crime peaked in 2002 at 95,330, the crime rate per 1,000 at 118.3, it was actually lower than 2001, even though crimes was lower in 2001. Since 2002, as crime has decreased and the state's population has increased, the crime rate per 1,000 has decreased. In 2004, the crime rate reached a six year low of 109.9 per 1,000. It increased slightly (.1 percent) in 2005 as crime increased to 110.0 per 1,000.

Drug Offenses account for 11 percent of crimes received, violent crime account for 29 percent, while serious property crimes and other property and social crimes each account for 30 percent each of all crimes received.

Group A Offenses consist of the 22 major NIBRS crimes ranging from arson through assault, burglary, vandalism, drug offenses, fraud, homicides and forcible sex offenses. Group A detailed information is based on each major charge in the crime incident, instead of just the most serious incident, as was the case under the UCR crime reporting system.

The term "Offenses Received" pertains to the number of reported crimes using the NIBRS protocol.

Offenses Received increased between 2000 and 2002. In 2000, there were 93,984 Group A offenses received in Delaware and increased to 95,330 in 2002. Delaware crime had since decreased reaching a low in 2004 of 91,274. In 2005, crime increased 1.7 percent to 92,817.

Group A Crimes by County

Figure 3

There has been a 9.7 percent decrease in Group A crimes in New Castle County between 2000 and 2005. There has been a 4.2 percent increase in population during that same time period. The smallest increase in Group A crime in 2005 in all three counties, .7 percent, occurred in New Castle County in 2005.

Figure 4

There has been an 8.5 percent increase in Group A crimes in Kent county between 2000 and 2005. There has been a 13.3 percent increase in population in Kent county between 2000 and 2005, the largest percentage increase in all three counties. There was a .4 percent decrease in Group A crimes in 2005 in Kent county, with a 3.5 percent increase in population. For most years, the Kent County population has increased faster than crime, resulting in a decreasing crime rate. In 2000, the Kent County crime rate was 122.2 per 1,000 population. By 2005, it had decreased to 117.1 per 1,000 population.

Sussex county saw the largest increase in Group A crimes between 2000 and 2005, of 24.4 percent, with a 7.5 percent increase in population. There was a 6.9 percent increase in Group A crimes and a 2.5 percent increase in population between 2004 and 2005 in Sussex county. Although the Sussex county population is increasing rapidly, crime is increasing even faster, resulting in an increasing crime rate. The 2005 Sussex county crime rate, however, is still the lowest in the state. In 2005, the Sussex county crime rate was 105.7 per 1,000, while the New Castle county was 109.6, and Kent county was 117.1

Delaware Crime Maps

The following Crime Maps are of 2005 Serious Group A complaints per 1,000 population. The crimes counted for this map include homicide, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, arson, burglary, larceny, motor vehicle theft, drug violations and weapon law violations. The colors on the maps indicate the amount of complaints per 1,000 people. The blue areas have between 0 and 32 complaints, green have 32 to 48 complaints, yellow, 48 to 61 complaints, gold, 61 to 97, and the red areas have between 97 and 449 complaints per 1,000.

The second Crime Map shows the 2005 NIBRS Group A Violent Crime complaints per 1,000 population. This map includes homicide, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault complaints per 1,000 population. The blue areas are between 0 and 2.4 complaints, the green area is between 2.4 and 5.5 complaints, yellow is 5.5 to 7.2 complaints, gold, 7.2 to 10.2 complaints, and the red area is between 10.2 and 74.2 complaints per 1,000 population.

The statewide average for this map is 7.5 complaints per 1,000 population. Each group includes twenty percent of the Delaware jurisdictions.

*In the year 2005, the crimes of Fondling and Unlawful Sexual Contact were moved from a miscellaneous heading to "Sex Offenses". Also, the definition of rape has been expanded to include male victims. Sex attacks against males are to be classified as either assaults or "other sex offenses", depending on the nature of the crime and the extent of the injury. This explains the marked increase in "Sex Crimes" between the years 2004 and 2005.

Clearance Rates

In Delaware, there has been a 1.2 percent decrease in total offenses received since 2000, and during that time, a 33 percent increase in arrests. This decrease in offenses, coupled with the increase in arrests, helps to explain the 11.9 percent increase in cleared offenses in Delaware. Overall, there has been a 13.2 percent increase in the percentage of crimes cleared between 2000 and 2005. In 2000, there were 40,865 Group A crimes cleared. In 2005, this count increased to 45,711.

Clearance rates in crime analysis is the number or percentage of offenses received that are solved by the police. An offense is 'cleared by arrest' or solved for crime reporting purposes when at least one person is arrested, charged with the commission of the offenses and turned over to the court for prosecution. An offense is also counted as cleared by arrest if any of the following "exceptional" conditions pertain: suicide of the offender; double murder; deathbed confession; offender killed by police or citizen; confession by offender already in custody or serving a sentence; an offender prosecuted in another jurisdiction for a different offense and that jurisdiction does not release offender to first jurisdiction; extradition denied; victim refuses to cooperate in prosecution; warrant is outstanding for felon but before arrest the offender dies of natural causes or as a result of an accident, or is killed in the commission of another offense; or, handling of a juvenile offender either orally or by written notice to parents in instances involving minor offenses where no referral to juvenile court is made as a matter of publicly accepted police policy.<sup>1</sup>

It should be noted that the arrest of one person can clear several crimes or several persons may be arrested to clear one crime. Violent crimes (murder, forcible rape, robbery, and aggravated assault) often undergo a more vigorous investigative effort than crimes against property. Additionally, victims and or witnesses often identify the perpetrators. Consequently, violent crimes tend to have higher clearance rates than property crimes.

NIBRS "Group B" Crimes

NIBRS Group B Offenses consist of 11 lesser offenses: bad checks, curfew/loitering/vagrancy violations, disorderly conduct, driving under the influence, drunkenness, nonviolent family offenses, liquor law violations, peeping tom, runaway, trespass and "Group B All Other Offenses". "Group B All Other Offenses" are all crimes which are not Group A offenses and not included in one of the specifically named Group B crime categories listed above. Group B offenses only have summary complaint data and limited arrestee data recorded in NIBRS. Not all details required for Group A incident reports are requested for Group B arrest reports. There has been a 29.4 percent increase in Adult Group B Arrests between 2000 and 2005. There has been a 38.3percent increase in Juvenile Group B Arrests between 2000 and 2005.

Crime in Delaware 2000 - 2005 by Jurisdiction

Complaint, Offense and Clearance data appear by agency in the following Crime in Delaware 2000 - 2005 by Jurisdiction section.

'Complaints' are criminal offenses reported to or by the police.

'Offenses' are "offenses received" which are the primary crime statistic for NIBRS. Because serious charges in a case can be counted separately as an "offense received", these counts exceed the count of complaints. Counts of "offenses received" are provided for a select sample of crimes including homicide, kidnapping, forcible sex offenses, arson, robbery, assaults, extortion - blackmail, burglary, larceny - theft, motor vehicle theft, counterfeiting - forgery, fraud, embezzlement, stolen property, property destruction - vandalism, drug - narcotic offenses, non-forcible sex offenses, pornography - obscene material, gambling, prostitution, bribery, and weapon law violations. For each type of "offense received" the number of cleared offenses is also provided.

'Clearances' are complaints reported to the police and are considered cleared or solved once the police have identified the offender. One arrest may clear several crimes; therefore the clearance rate is often higher than the arrest rate.

The following pages provide, by Delaware agency, the numbers of total Group A and Group B complaints, which provide the summary of criminal activity by jurisdiction. The annual Complaint statistics in Crime in Delaware 2000 - 2005 are for crimes reported in each respective year. Clearance statistics for a given year show how many of that year's complaints have been solved that year. While it is recognized that more crimes will ultimately be cleared after the reporting year, clearance statistics are not updated in Crime in Delaware. This practice is consistent with that of the FBI's Crime in the United States reports; however, unlike the FBI reports, the compilation of Crime in Delaware is delayed until the reporting year statistics are complete.

It is important to note that the snapshot provided on the following pages is intended to provide a full account of a year's law enforcement activity, but there can be significant delays in conclusions and therefore, in the reporting of that activity. The SBI makes tremendous efforts to give all agencies the opportunity of have their year's activity entered into the state's information system. No agency is penalized for early, updated or late reporting - In fact, SBI does not prepare the year-end summary and the annual analysis until the last jurisdiction reports.

The percent change shown for each law enforcement agency is for the change in crime between 2004 and 2005.

Glossary of Terms

Adult	A person 18 years of age or older.
Arrest	A person physically apprehended, cited or served with a summons related to a reportable offense.
Arrest Rate	The number of arrests reported per 1,000 population.
Cleared	A complaint reported to the police is considered cleared or solved once the police have identified the offender. One arrest may clear several crimes; therefore the clearance rate is often higher than the arrest rate.
Crime Incident	One or more crimes committed by the same offender, or group of offenders at the same time and place. A reported Offense may involve more than one Crime Incident.
Complaint	A Criminal offense reported to or by the police.
Crime Rate	The number of Crimes per 1,000 populations.
Drug Offenses	The violation of laws prohibiting the production, distribution, and/or use of certain controlled substances and the equipment or devices utilized in their preparation and/or use.
Ethnicity	Indicates ethnic origin, regardless of race, as either Hispanic or not Hispanic.
Group A Offenses	22 crimes ranging from arson through assault, burglary, vandalism, drug offenses, fraud, homicides and forcible sex offenses. Group A detailed information is based on each charge in the crime incident.
Group B Offenses	11 offenses ranging from Bad Checks, drunkenness, driving under the influence to non-violent family offenses. Group B offenses only have arrestee data recorded in NIBRS. In the Group B Arrest Report, because of the different natures of Group A and B offenses, not all details required for Group A Incident Reports are requested for Group B Arrest Reports. Only arrestee data are required for Group B crimes.
Juvenile	A person under 18 years of age.
Offenses Received (Charges)	Crimes reported to or otherwise known to police. Each charge in the crime incident is counted. To be counted in Crime in Delaware, information on reported offenses must also be provided to SBI for proper classification and coding in the State's Criminal Justice Information System. If the provision of information to SBI is not complete and timely, Crime in Delaware will represent an undercounting of reported offenses.
Population data	Delaware population projection estimates are from the Delaware population Consortium.
Property Crimes	Property Crimes are based on the main criminal objective to obtain money, property, or some other benefit.
Social Crimes	Social Crimes represent certain types of criminal activity prohibited by our society.
Type of Crime	Specific Crime committed during a reportable incident.
Violent Crimes	Violent Crimes are crimes such as Homicide, Assault and Forcible sex offenses.

Delaware Changes from Uniform Crime Reporting to National Incident Based Crime Reporting System

According to the F.B.I.'s "Crime in the United States 2002", currently 4,239 law enforcement agencies contribute NIBRS data to the national UCR Program. The data submitted by these agencies represent 17 percent of the U.S. population and 18 percent of the crime statistics collected by the UCR Program, making the database much more robust and detailed. This new system eliminates the hierarchy rule formerly used in the UCR methodology. The UCR's hierarchy rule is used when there is more than one Part I offense; the law enforcement agency must select the most severe offense and not the other offenses. For example, if a person is arrested and charged with possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony and terroristic threatening, the UCR process would count only the most severe offense (Possession of a Firearm during the Commission of a Felony) and ignores the terroristic threatening offense. This crime reporting process applies only to the reported number of crimes for statistical purposes and does not affect the criminal justice process. For instance, the UCR hierarchy rule does not affect the number of charges for which the defendant may be indicted for in the courts.

NIBRS crime reporting is broken down into two major categories; "Group A", the more serious crimes, and "Group B", the less serious crimes. In the past, UCR reported eight "Part I" serious crimes, while NIBRS reports on twenty-four "Group A" serious crimes.

Known as IBR (Incident-Based Reporting), the new NIBRS strategy allows analysis of the incidence of crime for each charge within a crime. Incidents are the number of criminal charges known to police.

NIBRS "Group A" offenses consist of investigative and incident reports, which include attempts and suspected events. In Crime in Delaware, most of the NIBRS crime analysis is based on the "incidents" within a crime event. In a few areas, "Reported Crimes", that is, the number of crime events, is also reported. "Reported Crime" measurement is the same in the new NIBRS as it was in UCR. Detailed information is also reported for NIBRS arrests. There are twenty-four major Group A crime categories, with forty-four detail crime sub-categories.

"Group B" offense information is based solely on summary complaints and arrests. The NIBRS crime reporting method is ideal for strategic and tactical crime analysis at the local and regional level, and the data is robust enough to allow creation of new categories, such as Crimes against Society, or for the researcher to explore other relationships among the variables. The crimes that make up Group A and B offenses are much more detailed in the past and for the first time also include analysis of such offenses as pornography, counterfeiting, prostitution, embezzlement, bad checks, weapons violations, and Peeping Tom activity.

Reader's Notes

Uniform Crime Reports v. National Incident Based Reporting: Comparison of Definitions

Note: All FBI UCR definitions were quoted directly from the Uniform Crime Reporting Handbook published by the FBI (1984) or Crime in the United States, 1997, published by the FBI (1998); all FBI NIBRS definitions were quoted directly from the Uniform Crime Reporting Handbook: NIBRS Edition published by the FBI (1992).

- Arson

UCR Part and Definition - Part I Arson (200): Any willful or malicious burning or attempt to burn, with or without the intent to defraud, a dwelling house, public building, motor vehicle or aircraft, personal property of another, etc.

NIBRS Group and Definition - Group A Arson: To unlawfully and intentionally damage, or attempt to damage, any real or personal property by fire or incendiary device. A person is guilty of arson in the third degree when the person recklessly damages a building by intentionally starting a fire or causing an explosion.

(b) In any prosecution under this section it is an affirmative defense that no person other than the accused had a possessory or proprietary interest in the building.

Arson: The willful and malicious burning of a dwelling, motor vehicle, or other personal property, with or without the intent to defraud.

- Assault, Aggravated

UCR Part and Definition - Part I Aggravated Assault (13A): An unlawful attack by one person upon another for the purpose of inflicting severe or aggravated bodily injury. This type of assault usually is accompanied by the use of a weapon or by means likely to produce death or great bodily harm. Simple assaults are excluded.

NIBRS Group and Definition - Group A Aggravated Assault: An unlawful attack by one person upon another wherein the offender uses a weapon or displays it in a threatening manner, or the victim suffers obvious severe or aggravated bodily injury involving apparent broken bones, loss of teeth, possible internal injury, severe laceration, or loss of consciousness.

Aggravated Assault: An assault classified as aggravated is determined by criteria rather than statute. The criteria pertain to the severity of the attack unless a weapon is used. Attempted Murder is an aggravated assault. Simple Assault is a Group B Crime.

Offenses of general applicability (i.e., any offense prefixed by "accessory before/after the fact", "aiding and abetting", "assault to commit", "conspiracy to commit", "facilitation of", "solicitation to commit", "threat to commit", or any other prefix identifying it as other than the substantive offense) are included in this category, if the substantive offense is within Group A. If Group B offenses are involved, classify as the substantive offense. Generally, traffic offenses are excluded from this offense category. The vehicle-related offenses of hit and run (of a person) and vehicular manslaughter are, however, included; but driving under the influence is not as it is a separate Group B offense.

OFFENSE CODES

There are a total of 57 three-digit Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) offense codes for the Group "A" and Group "B" offenses used in NIBRS.

A. Group "A" Offense Codes

There are 22 Group "A" crime categories made up of 46 Group "A" offenses; therefore, there are 46 Group "A" Offense Codes.

The Group "A" Offense Codes were derived from the four-digit National Crime Information Center (NCIC) Uniform Offense Classification Codes in order to facilitate interrelating offense data between the NCIC and UCR Systems. This correlation was accomplished by using in the UCR Offense Codes the same first two characters as used in the NCIC coding system. The third character of the UCR Code is either a zero (0) or an alphabetical letter (A, B, etc.) referencing a subcategory of the crime category. For example, the NCIC Code for Simple Assault is 1313, whereas the UCR Code is 13B.

There are two exceptions:

1. The NCIC Offense Code for Statutory Rape is 1116, whereas the UCR Code is 36B.
2. The NCIC Offense Code for Forcible Fondling (of child) is 3601, whereas the UCR Code is 11D.

These exceptions resulted from the fact that NCIC includes Statutory Rape in Sexual Assaults, whereas UCR includes it in Nonforcible Sex Offenses; and NCIC includes Child-Fondling in Sex Offenses, whereas UCR includes it in Forcible Sex Offenses.

B. Group "B" Offense Codes

A separate 900 offense code numbering series has been assigned to the 11 Group "B" crime categories. For example, the NCIC Offense Code for Bad Checks is 2606, whereas the UCR Code is 90A. The different numbering series was established to assist in distinguishing Group "B" offenses from the Group "A" offenses. The distinction is important because of the difference in reporting requirements between the two types of offenses. Incidents and arrests involving Group "A" offenses are reported using Group "A" Incident Reports, whereas only arrests involving Group "B" offenses are reported using Group "B" Arrest Reports.

- Offense Code Table

The 57 UCR Offense Codes, as well as their NCIC counterparts, are listed on the following pages under their respective Group "A" offense and Group "B" offense captions.

Highlights

Differences between Summary UCR and NIBRS

Summary UCR

- Consists of monthly aggregate crime counts for eight Index crimes
- Records one offense per incident as determined by hierarchy rule
- Hierarchy rule suppresses counts of lesser offenses in multiple-offense incidents
- Does not distinguish between attempted and completed crimes
- Applies hotel rule to burglary
- Records rape of females only
- Collects weapon information for murder, robbery, and aggravated assault
- Provides counts on arrests for the 8 Index crimes and 21 other offenses.

NIBRS

- Consists of individual incident records for the 8 Index crimes and 38 other offenses with details on —
  - Offense
  - Victim
  - Offender
  - Property
- Records each offense occurring in incident
- Distinguishes between attempted and completed crimes
- Expands burglary hotel rule to include rental storage facilities
- Records rape of males and females
- Restructures definition of assault
- Collects weapon information for all violent offenses
- Provides details on arrests for the 8 Index crimes and 49 other offenses.

Sources of data discrepancies between Summary UCR and NIBRS

Human error

- Misclassifications of —
  - Aggravated assault
  - Motor vehicle theft
  - Larceny

Hierarchy

- Suppression of multiple offenses by hierarchy rule

Operational

- Modified offense definitions
- Converting State penal code to FBI crime definitions
- Over-reporting because of State practices
- Recording every possible offense with which offender may be charged

Computer

- Inadequate programming

When comparing data from the same year for the jurisdictions in this study, NIBRS rates differ only slightly from Summary UCR —

- Murder rates are the same
- Rape, robbery, and aggravated assault rates in NIBRS are about 1% higher, on average, than in Summary UCR
- NIBRS burglary rates are lower by an average 0.5%
- NIBRS larceny rates are higher by an average 3.4%
- NIBRS motor vehicle theft rates are higher by an average 4.5%.
